FIN.TECHSUMMIT 2018

The second annual Fin.Techsummit creates an opportunity for open discussions about the future of financial services that are heavily impacted by new technologies and digitalisation.

The event will welcome renowned guests from Slovakia, Central Europe as well as other European Union member states, who will discuss recent challenges related to implementation of artificial intelligence in banking sector and financial market, behavioural aspects of providing financial services as well as regulation of environment affected by automation and disruptive elements and actors.

Moreover, representatives of start-up companies will have greater space for presentations of their unique business plans and new opportunities to gather support for their projects.

Who will attend the conference?

The conference will gather representatives from public sector, business, start-ups, innovators and visionaries as well as everyone who is interested to actively participate in creating new solutions and attractive and functional financial ecosystem.

ORGANIZER

Future Proof has been established in 2013 with mission of organising innovative events. The main aim is to facilitate dialogue between conservative traditional institutions and dynamic companies that change standardised approaches. It is a unique Central European platform of conferences with diverse topical focus, whose ambition is to support sharing of knowledge and creation of new approaches and business models.
